DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hawkins et al (6,354,283) in view of Henrichsen et al (2003/0101701) and Pearce et al (2002/0187703). Note a device for filtering and reducing pressure of air that builds up in a crankcase of an operating internal combustion engine, a filter container having an upstream air inlet 26 including means for connection to the crankcase to remove air therefrom, and a downstream air outlet 30 including means for connection to the inlet manifold to supply filtered air thereto, a filter means comprising at least one wall of fibrous material 40 running between walls of the filter container, separating the container thereby into an inlet chamber 64 comprising the inlet, and an outlet chamber 68, and the downstream portion leading to outlet 30, a liquid outlet 58 in a lower portion separate from the air outlet, the liquid outlet comprising means for connection to the crankcase of the return particles collected by the filter, wherein the filter container has a fixed position in relation to the internal combustion engine, and the filter container has a predetermined angle in relation to the engine. Hawkins et al show everything except the fibrous material of the filter comprising needled or thermally bonded fibers, wherein the fibrous material is comprised of fiber mats, in which the fibers have a diameter of 1-40 microns. Henrichsen et al teach that it is old in the art to utilize thermal bonding to bond the fibers together into fibrous mats, the fibers having a diameter of 1-40 microns (see paragraphs 12 and 29). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to modify Hawkins et al by utilizing a filter comprising thermally bonded fibers having a diameter of 1-40 microns, in order to aid in shaping the filter into the needed shape, and as cited by Pearce et al in paragraph 10, thermal bonding enhances the strength characteristics of the material.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 5-12 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Note the crankcase ventilation filter of Walker, Jr. (6,422,224).

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
